

Notes on Wk1 Quiz

- False: When an experienced DL engineer works on a new problem, they can usually use insight from previous problems to train a good model on the first try, without needing to iterate multiple times through different models
- An RNN is used for machine translation because:
  - it can be trained as a supervised problem
  - it's applicable when the input/output is a sequence